Leslie Strudwick : Maori with Code (World Cultures) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Maori with Code (World Cultures):

The Maori are the indigenous peoples of New Zealand. Although it is not certain when the Maori first began arriving on New Zealand, most archaeologists believe it was between AD 950 and 1130.

From School Library Journal Gr 4-6-This series showcases a diverse array of peoples and places that should fascinate aspiring world travelers. The texts are informative, but are written in a way that sometimes obfuscate rather than inform, particularly when it comes to what traditions the profiled cultures still practice. The "Culture Cues" text boxes actually highlight geographical and biological information of the group's native area. On the upside, each book includes a website where kids can enter a code and gain access to videos, quizzes, activities, and other materials that expand on the subjects. (c) Copyright 2011.
