The 9th edition of Maudsley Burn's Land Law Cases and Materials continues to provide an essential reference work for students and practitioners. It includes a wide range of extracts from cases, statutes, Law Commission reports and other literature, which highlight the key issues to understand the present law and its continuing development.

“The new edition maintains the exemplary standards set by the earlier ones and is by any criteria an excellent book... Edward Burn is to be congratulated on the splendid new edition. All those who have to teach land law are in his debt”
Conveyancer and Property Lawyer ...this edition, like its predecessors, is about as comprehensive as a single-volume low-priced text can be... It offers as true a path as is possible through the intricacies, contradictions and irrelevancies that beset much of the law of real property.
About the Author Edward Burn is a Barrister and Honorary Bencher of Lincoln's Inn, Emeritus Student of Christ Church, Oxford, and formerly Professor of Law at the City University.
