Professionals: Directors, Officers, Accountants, Financial Advisors, Lawyers (Practising Law Institute):

Tailored to give business professionals and their staffs precisely what they need to know about this regulatory sea change, PLI's Guide to the Sarbanes-Oxley Act for Business Professionals concisely explains the governance, disclosure, reporting, and record-keeping reforms reflected in many new SEC, NYSE, and NASD rules. Featuring subject-oriented compliance checklists and citations to the rules for follow-up research, the book avoids legal jargon and technical references while it clarifies: New management certification requirements for quarterly and annual reports. The steps involved in developing mandatory disclosure procedures and financial controls. Ways of improving Managements Discussion Analysis to meet new SEC standards for MDA. Restrictions on the use of non-GAAP measures in SEC filings to protect investors. Stricter standards for director, auditor, and research analyst independence to prevent conflicts of interest.
